Project Idea

Camplore, which is an integrated and developed version of Oasis, BlackBoard and Webmail systems used by Izmir University of Economics, offers a more enjoyable academic life from freshmans to graduation candidates. It increases participation by encouragement the tasks that students have to do, while helping to socialize and flow of information within the framework of the academy's control. Thanks to smart student mentors designed for each department, each student is provided with personalized academic support, therefore easing the workload of advisor teachers. While providing official document support, which is the nightmare of most students, it also offers versions of the lessons students may choose in their academic life. This system, which includes the special duties of the department in addition to the course delivery, will increase the competition among the students and will support them in matters such as self-development and socialization.
